The Work of the UK Wolf Trust

The UK Wolf Conservation Trust is a not for profit organisation formed in 1995 by the late Roger Palmer who with his wife, Tsa, had previously kept wolves privately for over 20 years, yet after their meeting with Erich Klinghammer in the USA, Roger decided to form the trust to dispel the myths and misconceptions regarding wolves. Now in its 15th year, and run predominantly by volunteer, it has grown into the UK's leading organisation supporting projects world wide in aid of wolf conservation, protection of habitats and awareness through education.

The trust, based in Berkshire, UK, is home to 8 ambassadors of both European and North American stock, each living in small groups within large enclosures of grassland, tree's and ponds making their spaces as natural as possible. These wolves are excellent representatives of this beautiful and endangered species and supporters and members can visit and walk and stroke these amiable creatures who also attend schools, shows and colleges working to raise awareness and dispel myths regarding these enigmatic animals.

The main focus of the trust is on education and they do not have breeding programmes, their wolves come from zoo's that have closed down or other enterprises that have these animals captive and for one reason or another wish to dispose of them, so often ,they come as adults or abandoned pups.

Within their home environment they interact with their keepers and volunteer staff to provide educational and conservational information to help the species remaining in the wild. There is an onsite education centre equipped for school visits or for individual members and supports to visit, this is not a centre open to the public, although many college and university student have the opportunity to take part in work placements and carry out non invasive studies, learning through observation, theoretical studies and practical hands on experience. Many are Vet students researching dissertations towards degree's. Visits by school groups is encouraged from as young as six years old and is very popular as well as the open days, wolf keeper days, special walks and creative writing workshops , often run by their patron Michelle Paver, author of the Wolf Brother series of books.

WolfPrint is their own magazine available for sale to the public or free to sponsors and members, helping to keep everyone up to date with what's going on in the lives of the wolves as well as projects concerning wolf conservation all around the world.

The current families of wolves include Torak, Mai and Mosi - Canadian Timber Wolves, Mosi & Mai came from Dartmoor zoo and Torak from the Anglian wolf society. Torak is of course the name of the chief character in Michelle Pavers books. Then there is Duma & Dakota, the elders of the wolves, they are North American Wolves, and are in retirement now having lost the alpha male Kodiak, last year to Cancer and old age, he was 15 years old.

The European pack are Latea and Lunca, with Alba their male. Alba survived a harrowing broken neck injury after running into a tree whilst chasing his girls around, much love and patience nursed him back to health and although he runs with a sideways steps, he is practically back to full health now. A very lucky wolf indeed.

I had the pleasure of walking with Mosi and Mai last summer as well as another trip to visit them on their open day and it is an experience like no other, these are magnificent creatures that look deep into your soul and seem to read every part of you, it was the best money I spent all year supporting this wonderful trust and my day with them will live on in my heart forever.

Mia and Me

Wolf you are the pathfinder
Of Moon mysteries you are the minder
Your silent shadow graces the night
Nothing is lost to your penetrating sight
A glint of amber eyes in a night black as coal
Yet you see right into my soul

You call and howl to the silvery moon
A secret language like an ancient rune
Respecting your elders, teaching your young
Of ancient wisdoms waiting to be sung
You share your affections and voice your feelings
From my encounter with you I am still reeling

Your spirit roams wild and free
Across the plain, by hill and tree
Yours is the silent oath of brotherhood
Yours is the wisdom of all that is good Yours is the essence I wish to be
As we walked side by side, Mia and Me.

Traditional Tibetan Blessing:
Submitted by Dottie

Just as the soft rain fills the streams pours into the rivers and join together in the ocean so may the power of every moment of your goodness

flow forth to awaken and heal all beings.
-Those here now, those gone before, those yet to come.

By the power of every moment of your goodness
may your heart's wishes be soon fulfilled.

By the power of every moment of your goodness
may all dangers be averted and all diseases be gone and may no obstacles come across your way.

May you enjoy fulfillment and long life and by the power of every moment of your goodness may your life prosper in the four blessings of old age, beauty, happiness and strength.

I awaken to the beckoning wind
On this January morn
Trees stripped naked of their foliage
Bare and torn
As their arms reach out in supplication
Beckoning for the promise of Springtime to hasten.

Old Man Winter is concocting his brew
Tis a brand new year, just right after the Yule
The Ice Queen is dusting the earth with silvery foil
And Nature seems to be resting, free from her toil.

Light snowflakes drift in the frigid wind
As the Sun hides himself behind the clouds, deep within
The Stars await their nocturnal return
Giving way to the daylight in a harrowing mourn.

Creatures huddle in nests or scurry for food
While inside we humans try to kindle the fuel
Outside its cold, and the Goddess unfolds
A blanket of Winter upon her creatures below.

So brew the mulled cider
Set spark to the log
With your visions and dreams from the past year foretold
Rest in Earth's bosom and drink in her smile
Its Winter, be quiet
Tis what Nature desires.

Lemurian Seed Crystals

Lemurian Crystals were found in Brazil in 1999 lying separate in a bed of sand, unattached to clusters which is the normal way quartz points are found. Unusual as this is, the appearance of these crystals is even more striking. They are not shiny, but have almost a frosted appearance, and many have a pink glow.

They carry the vibrations of the "Pink Ray" and of the Lemurian Seed. It is said to have been planted by Lemurian within the Earth, they have a specialized purpose. And can be used for movement through the Grids, aligning Chakras, intuitive communication, to receive knowledge and information. And aid in the ascension and enlightenment process.

About 12 million years ago there existed an advanced civilization somewhere between the American continent and Australia. Lemurian was peaceful and highly developed spiritually.

During the last days of Lemuria, it was decided to plant seed crystals programmed to transmit a message of oneness. Having seeded the crystals, the Lemurian, it is believed, left this planet for other star systems. Others went into inner earth (while maintaining telepathic connection with those in other parts of the galaxy, where they continue to care for the earth and the seed crystals now surfacing.

The crystals are thus connected to inner earth, the earth's surface, and the stars, and serve as a link to these various magnetic fields. Each seed crystal is energetically connected to all other seed crystals.

This connection is a living example of the message of the Lemurian seed crystals. Teaching us how to be both individuals and integral parts of the cosmic design, that all beings are equal, and helping us to maintain our connection with our spiritual source while in a physical body.

The striations, which to some observers have the appearance of being lasered onto the crystals, contain this knowledge. Some ways to work with them are to hold one of the striated sides of the crystal to the third eye. Another is to rub the index finger of your non-dominant hand over the ridges.

To balance the Chakras put a crystal/stone on each chakra and rotate the Lemurian seed crystal in a circle over each stone. There are a great many Crystal Healing books available with more detailed instructions.

Information from Katrina Raphaell's, "Crystal Trilogy."

How To Use a Lemurian Crystals

There is a responsibility with Lemurian Seed Crystals. They know who they belong with. If one selects you, you have a responsibility to honor it and work with it. Each Lemurian Seed Crystal is home to many beings of light and information. This is a gift given to us at this particular time on the Earth Plane and all we have to do is to open up to use the higher frequencies that each Lemurian carries. This information was planted here on earth for our use at this particular time.

The Lemurian's are here to assist us in remembering who we really are. They can be accessed through meditation, in dreams (placed under your pillow). Or direct communication actually at any time (once you establish and open to the link between you and your Lemurian Seed Crystal).

There are vast universes inside the Lemurians and each crystal has unique information. Each person who is drawn to a Lemurian is actually already connected to this information and aligned with bringing in the higher frequencies of information and light via healing, energy work, etc.

Connecting to your Lemurian

It is as simple as saying hello to it and welcoming it. Thank your Lemurian for finding you and while you do this connect with your heart chakra. Treating the Lemurian Seed Crystal as an honored being. Ask it to share its information with you. This may come immediately or eventually it will be downloaded in dreams or visions or during meditation. It will come to you.

Healing or Energy Work

After you have connected to the Lemurian Seed Crystal, hold it in your hand and ask it to assist you with your healing work/energy work on this certain person for this particular task. You are essentially aligning with it to focus its energy on a specific task. This is one of the jobs the Lemurian Seed Crystal's are here for and they happily do so.

Next, either long distance or in person, you can begin the energy/healing work by surrounding yourself with white light and grounding yourself with an energy cord into mother earth.

Energetically connect with the individual to be worked on by visualizing them in your awareness (third eye area).

Ask all your angels, guides and masters to assist in this healing/energy work and ask this individuals angels, guides and masters to assist as well.

Visualize white light streaming from the Lemurian Crystal to this person. You can hold the Lemurian at their crown chakra or where ever you are drawn to do so. See the white light go into the body and see their energy body and physical body as whole, with energy flowing perfectly. You can continue this until you feel complete. This could be as short a time as 15 minutes or as long as 45 minutes. At some point during the healing energy work make this statement to yourself "all blocks are now released. It is so - So Be IT". This directs the energy to flow completely with no blocks.

Thank the angels, guides and masters for assisting you and thank your Lemurian Seed Crystal for its assistance with this healing/energy work. If you continued to do healing/energy work you will receive your own guidance on what to do for each person and you will alter the healing work for each one.

If you are reading this then you are connected to the Lemurian Seed Crystals already. It would be my greatest joy for everyone to gain the confidence to do this work. It is much needed now Lemurian's are extremely high frequency and should not be worn on the body when not in use. It is best to not let others handle your Lemurian as you will have to re-align it to do the healing/energy work each time some one other than you touches it.

Understanding Oneness Level of Consciousness

Submitted By Michael Forbus

Sometimes we look at the actions of others and find it difficult to understand what motivates them. But we are all doing the best we can with the information we currently have. We have all been taught how to see the world from the examples of those around us and by our experiences. Keeping this in mind, we can accept the choices made by others while seeking ways to increase the world's level of consciousness as a whole.

Our different levels of consciousness are like the developmental stages of children, whose understanding varies according to their age and experience. For example, the behavior of a two-year-old who doesn't want to share can be understood as a phase of his social education, whereas a 16-year-old who behaves in the same manner would be thought to be acting childish. It is important to remember that we are each on our own unique path. We may have chosen certain lessons or made an agreement to play certain roles in the unfolding of the world's understanding before we incarnated in this lifetime. So our job is not to judge others but to shift the balance of understanding in the world by increasing our own.

Every thought we have and action we take becomes part of the collective energy of the planet. When we use our energy to bring light into the world, it combines with the light brought by others to dispel the darkness. Though we live in a world of duality, which helps us to experience the material plane, we don't need to experience extremes to understand them. We can share our experiences and understanding with others not from a place of condescension but of connection. When the entire family of humanity understands that each of our thoughts, choices, and actions affect us all, we will share an incredible level of consciousness—one that puts our oneness above all else and helps us evolve into higher expressions of our spiritual selves. Remember the next time you witness an action of another that they are of the same earth as you but simply on a different conscious level at this point in their life. Find compassion, bless them, and move along your day in grace. Namaste, Miguel

Listening To The Void

Submitted by Kate

All sounds, from a whisper to a classical symphony, arise out of silence and disappear into silence. But silence is always there beneath sound and is the space where sound can exist. We tend to think of silence as the absence of sound, but silence has its own weight and quality. When you listen to silence, you can perceive its intense depth and power. Taking the time to experience silence calms the mind and rejuvenates the body. Silence is the void where we can hear the many sounds that we often ignore - the voice of our intuition telling us the truth, the sound of the breeze blowing, the hum of the radiator, and the noises we make just because we are alive.

One way to experience silence is to wake up before the rest of the world has come alive. Try not to move into activity, and leave off the lights, radio, and television. Sit still and simply listen. You may hear your heartbeat or your breath, but keep your attention tuned to the silence that surrounds you. Stay this way for as long as you can, and allow the sound of silence to penetrate your body until it moves into your core. Feel the gentle, pulsing waves of silence and allow it to cleanse you. Five minutes of communing with silence can leave you feeling vibrant and connected to the universe.

At night, choose a moment after everyone around you has retired and tune in to silence. You can also experience silence throughout the day. Even in the midst of activity, moments of silence are always present. Usually we ignore or feel nervous around silence and try to fill these moments with sound. Yet silence is always there - vast, potent, and available for us to step into any time we choose.

Learning Circle Tarot Group

By Dominique

Blessings to All,

I am Dominique I am the group owner of the learning circle tarot group here in the forest. I wanted to share some information about me and how I became interested in tarot and how I want to help people connect with tarot so it can benefit their lives like my tarot has with me. For those that do not know me, I am from a small town called Belton Texas. Been a military brat for 10 years of my life. Was born in Elkhart In and I have a younger sister who is 33 and a 13 year old niece. I met a very nice guy on line and moved to Canada to get married. My tarot cards told me it was time for me to move on and start a new chapter in my life along with my rune stones. So I packed up and drove to Canada and got married.

So many of you might be asking right now what brought you to your tarot? When I was 10 my babysitter who was in her 30s had an awesome room with statues of women and plants and paintings with spirals and a small card table in her room with a cloth and a clear ball. Her name was Cindy I loved to be in her room with all the pretty rocks and wonderful smells. I would sit on her floor and shuffle and play with the cards and build towers out of them. When I was 16 my mom went to Cindys moms house to pick up some paint supplies we were there a while.

Cindy had asked me to come in to her room and we talked. She read my cards since now I was old enough to understand. I was told that in the next few years the tarot will call out to you and a deck will choose you. She told me she could see a huge light in my eye and touched my forehead. I got my first tarot deck at 21 from a local B Dalton in the mall.

She was right the tarot choose me by falling off the shelf when I was nowhere near it. I picked them up off the floor and got a warm fuzzy feeling and I bought them. Trying to learn tarot was a pain for me to understand due to my dyslexia but then a light went off and I could hear voices tell me what the cards were for. There were some days I heard the voices and some days I did not.

Its now at 36 that I realize what Cindy was talking about with the light. I have learned from talking to countless others that tarot seems to be a stepping stone to coming back to the goddess and coming back to gaia. Through the sacred universal symbols that open the mind to help you realize that we are not alone and that we through the power of the tarot are all inner connected.

For the students of my group what I want to pass to them is what was passed to me. To learn to connect to that inner divine that voice that connects us to the universe. I want to help people trust in that voice that is a part of us that's been repressed for so long. That voice that we have learned to mistrust because ego says what you're telling that person is wrong. We are puzzle pieces with millions and millions of endless possibilities to information to fit what is going on in our lives and have the abilities to access it. This is our right. Our Akashic records are a part of us there to be used to help someone else or our selves. I guess in some ways I want to be that movement that helps wake up our consciousness.

So what's the hardest thing to using tarot?

Hardest thing to using tarot is to be able to lay out cards and look the person in the eye and give them information that they say is wrong.
To truly know thyself is truly divine.

What should I do if I am interested in choosing a deck?

First off you need to be focused you just can't walk in to a mall or occult store and just pick up a deck and walk off. You have to be in the moment when you choose your deck. Turn off your phone, text, or tweets. Before you walk in anywhere see a white light around you and ask the divine to guide you to the right deck for your energy at this time. Then just walk don't think why am I walking this way or I feel stupid. You have to give your body to them so they can guide your feet to what you ask for. Let your mind go blank. The other thing is that you will be shown signs and symbols out of nowhere.

small explanation: I have been wanting to use a new deck and I am not sure what I should get. I was given a box from my husband's friend of his ex's stuff that he no longer wanted in the apartment. He had put it out on the curb and had gone back out and brought it to our house. Every thing that was in the box was Egyptian that had come from Egypt his BF was hindi. This is the funny part. I started doubting that I could handle this deck because of all the symbols. I flipped the tv on and I changed a station and a woman was saying you can handle it. I just shook my head and went to look for ghost hunters and on the satellite it said in the info box ghost hunters but on tv was something about Dr Hawass discovering new tombs in Egypt.. I just sat there and laughed.
so you have to open up all ways keep in mind they can not interfere because of free will all they can do is show us signs and point us in the directions they want us to go in to. ~ Believe In Yourself And Make It Happen~

Love & Blessings
Dominique

IMBOLC: A TRUE STORY

Excerpted from the book A Witch Like Me copyright (c) 2010,

Janus Laughingbear Blume

Sunshine poured through the February day like light refracted through fine crystal.

On the central coast of California there is no snow to melt or ice to break as a signal that winter is ending. Instead, nature practices for her post-equinox splendor with a dress rehearsal that sometimes surpasses the actual performance. It was Imbolc, the day halfway between Winter Solstice and Vernal Equinox, the Neo-Pagan celebration of growing light. Winter weather wasn't over, but from this day on, it would fight a losing battle. Days would become visibly longer as they approached the tipping point of the equinox, the one day of equal light and dark.

Robynne was now six; she bounded down the back steps of the mobile home we shared.

"Just five minutes," I said. "We're going out."

It had been unexpectedly difficult to connect with other Pagans in our new town. They were stories about this or that group only to have the conversation end with, "But I don't think they're around anymore." Once in a while they would overhear snippets of conversation about "...an awesome ritual..." and coupled with the name of a coven or circle, but only in circumstances where it would have been very rude to butt in.

That day in early February I was longing for community and group ritual. I looked at my altar. The mobile home had a built-in china cabinet in the dining area. There was mirrored shelf where I had placed symbols of the God and the Goddess and the four cardinal directions. Other items that felt sacred were added as time went by, but now it looked dusty and cluttered.

I lit a candle. Robert walked up to me.

"It's a holiday for me," I said, "But it makes me sad that I don't have anybody to celebrate with. I really wish I could find a circle or something. Anything."

In the yard Robynne celebrated the crisp, sunny day. She noticed how the bare plants bore swelling buds. The grasses were a vibrant shade of green that spoke of recent rains.

Then she heard something. She listened very carefully, not sure at first what she was hearing.

It was the sound of voices—joyful, energetic, and not quite human. It was a sound that only the very pure of heart could hear, the sound that had led the ancients to set aside this cross-quarter day between Winter Solstice and Vernal Equinox. It was the day for breeding lambs in anticipation of spring. It would eventually become Ground Hog Day, the day that predicted how soon winter would end. The child heard the sound and knew exactly what it was.

I had not taught her about this day. What she knew came to her un-coached, unexpected, and as innocent as her own essence.

With a touch of melancholy I extinguished her candle. Robert and I walked out the front door and down the steps toward the car.

"Come on. We have to go now," I called.

Robynne came leaping, skipping, and running excitedly toward us.

"I heard them. They're back!" she exclaimed.

"What? What are you talking about?" we asked.

"The spirits. I heard them. The spirits are coming back to the garden."

My heart skipped a beat. It took a few seconds to process what my daughter had said.

"Do you know what day this is?" I asked.

She shook her head.

"This is Imbolc, the day we celebrate spring getting ready to come back. It's the day that the spirits come back to the garden. How did you know that?"

"Well, I heard them" Robynne said the child, with the matter-of-fact sincerity that only the very young can express.

All would unfold in due time. We would become part of Greenheart Grove, quite a cozy coven, indeed, thank you. We would meet many local Pagans, and feel at home in a number of circles. All of that would take years to happen but from that Imbolc day on, we would share an expanded appreciation of the mysteries and possibilities available on this new found pathway to the Goddess.

It can be sweet and shocking at the same time when that less solid but more real dimension manifests and speaks to you, when the longings of the soul are heard, when confirmation is sought and received, particularly when the revelation comes through your own young child!

When the spirits come back to the garden.

On a cool and damp Autumn Eve

by D Michael Waller

On a cool and damp Autumn eve
From this world, I'll take leave
Out to the woods I'll go
To the path I know

In the gentle breeze and rustle of the leaves soon I'll be abound in tranquility
In the quite moment of this endeavor my thoughts begin to gather

If only time could ceased
I could remain in this nocturnal bliss
Gazing above to the clouds, feeling the mist
no longer the summer days I remiss

In the shadows along the way slipping were the memories of yesterday
As the firefly's danced about so went any worries and doubts

This magical mystical world has waited for me to find my way to its gate knowing this way I would come never again to see the sun

Among the clouds and gentle breeze with the trees and their leaves
On a cool and damp Autumn eve
from this world, I took my leave

Rainbows of love and peace

*From the infinity of the Universe rainbows of love and peace arrive to us, invisible wires
of the Divine creative energy.*

From The Planet Earth, balls of destructive human energy are expanding into the Universe, created by ignorance which flares wars, crimes, hatred, and evil.

*We are small creators!!!
The thought is energy that creates!!!
Our uncontrolled minds are polluted from the dark energy of evil.*

*The thought is invisible energy that transmit our aggressive inner world to the collectivity.
We are the good and evil in the world!!!*

Our imbalance leads to our destruction and our planet one.

We are the architects of our destiny, unaware of having created our universe of suffering and disease.

*We can control our minds, heal our ills and cover the whole planet
with love and peace.*

A collective and balanced thought will throw millions of rainbows on earth and in the universe, illuminating the darkness.

We are divine collaborators, we must abandon ignorance, stupidity, drugs, vices and become responsible creators of love and peace, worthy of being God's children.

Native American Code Of Ethics

By Medicine Fox From the blogs of September

1. Each morning upon rising, and each evening before sleeping, give thanks for the life within you and for all life, for the good things the Creator has given you and for the opportunity to grow a little more each day. Consider your thoughts and actions of the past day and seek for the courage and strength to be a better person. Seek for the things that will benefit others (everyone).
2. Respect. Respect means "To feel or show honor or esteem for someone or something; to consider the well being of, or to treat someone or something with deference or courtesy". Showing respect is a basic law of life.
 - a. Treat every person from the tiniest child to the oldest elder with respect at all times.
 - b. Special respect should be given to Elders, Parents, Teachers, and Community Leaders.
 - c. No person should be made to feel "put down" by you; avoid hurting other hearts as you would avoid a deadly poison.
 - d. Touch nothing that belongs to someone else (especially Sacred Objects) without permission, or an understanding between you.
 - e. Respect the privacy of every person, never intrude on a person's quiet moment or personal space.
 - f. Never walk between people that are conversing.
 - g. Never interrupt people who are conversing.
 - h. Speak in a soft voice, especially when you are in the presence of Elders, strangers or others to whom special respect is due.
 - i. Do not speak unless invited to do so at gatherings where Elders are present (except to ask what is expected of you, should you be in doubt).
 - j. Never speak about others in a negative way, whether they are present or not.
 - k. Treat the earth and all of her aspects as your mother. Show deep respect for the mineral world, the plant world, and the animal world. Do nothing to pollute our Mother, rise up with wisdom to defend her.
 - l. Show deep respect for the beliefs and religion of others.
 - m. Listen with courtesy to what others say, even if you feel that what they are saying is worthless. Listen with your heart.

m. Listen with courtesy to what others say, even if you feel that what they are saying is worthless. Listen with your heart.

n. Respect the wisdom of the people in council. Once you give an idea to a council meeting it no longer belongs to you. It belongs to the people. Respect demands that you listen intently to the ideas of others in council and that you do not insist that your idea prevail. Indeed you should freely support the ideas of others if they are true and good, even if those ideas are quite different from the ones you have contributed. The clash of ideas brings forth the Spark of Truth.

3. Once a council has decided something in unity, respect demands that no one speak secretly against what has been decided. If the council has made an error, that error will become apparent to everyone in its own time.

4. Be truthful at all times, and under all conditions.

5. Always treat your guests with honor and consideration. Give of your best food, your best blankets, the best part of your house, and your best service to your guests.

6. The hurt of one is the hurt of all, the honor of one is the honor of all.

7. Receive strangers and outsiders with a loving heart and as members of the human family.

8. All the races and tribes in the world are like the different colored flowers of one meadow. All are beautiful. As children of the Creator they must all be respected.

9. To serve others, to be of some use to family, community, nation, and the world is one of the main purposes for which human beings have been created. Do not fill yourself with your own affairs and forget your most important tasks. True happiness comes only to those who dedicate their lives to the service of others.

10. Observe moderation and balance in all things.

11. Know those things that lead to your well-being, and those things that lead to your destruction.

12. Listen to and follow the guidance given to your heart. Expect guidance to come in many forms; in prayer, in dreams, in times of quiet solitude, and in the words and deeds of wise Elders and friends.

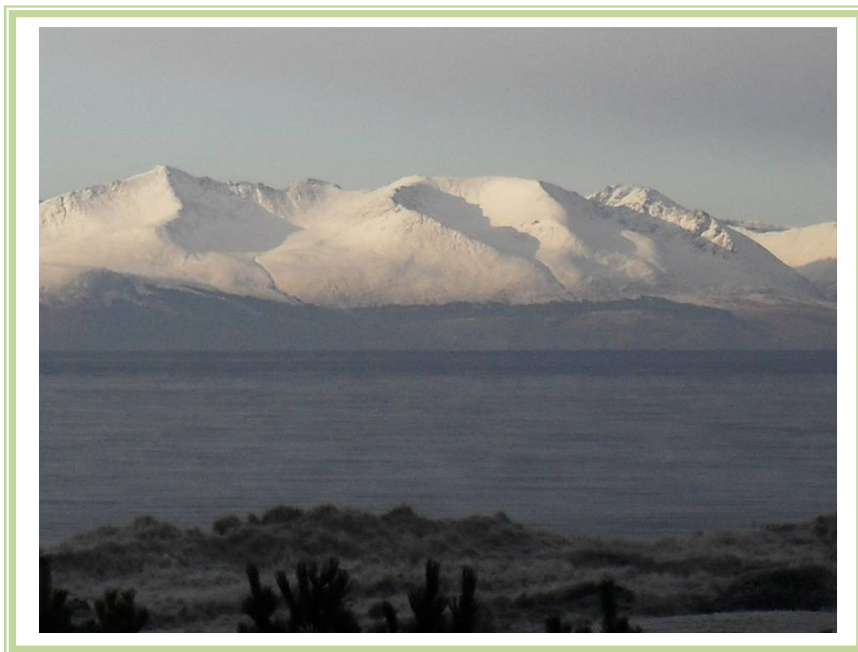

Shadow in Scotland

I have had the great experience of visiting Breeze and her Family. I had a very great and special time when i was there, ate some great food, built snowman and a snow dog, got to see several places when I was there.

First day I was there was covered in frost an inch thick on everything the scenery and landscape was awesome nothing like it anywhere else. Scotland is a very nice place even in the dead of winter. amazingly alot of their grass stays green there ..lol . Have had some great memories that will last a lifetime. We took several pictures and will release a few more at some point . That basically tells of my visit to Scotland.

Shadow

Island off the coast was very beautiful

Together again

By Chayenna

In all the lives we had together,
we never saw our real connection
In the love we feel for each other
We never saw who we really are.

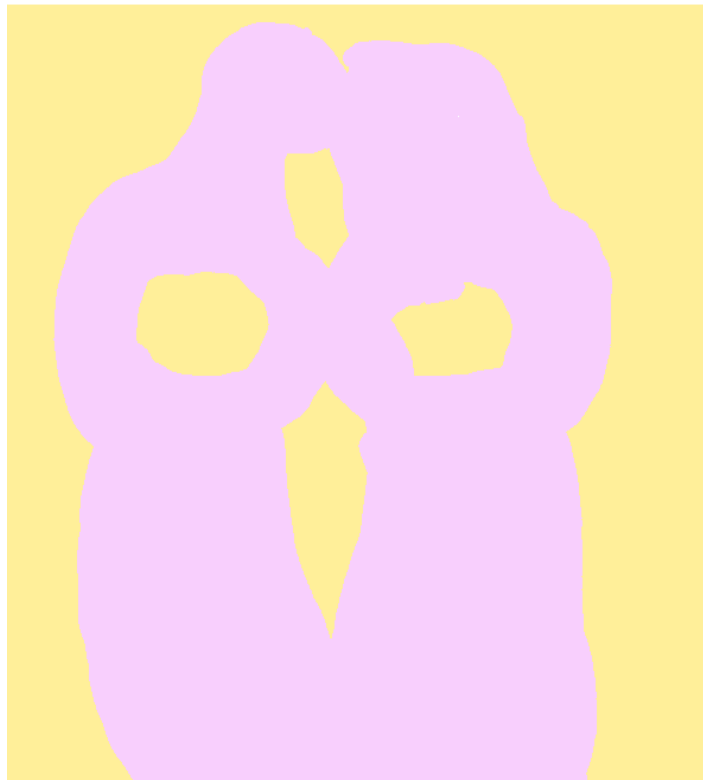

Just in our separation,
We become aware of the unconditional love,
that we shared together.

Just in our separation,
We feel the oneness in our self, and in each other.

Just in our separation,
All times, spaces, and shapes becomes one.

Just in our separation,
We can let go the past, and in the now moment
We create a new path
That will bring us to the future.

The Little Angel in the Under World

By Chayenna

The moment that the Little Angel left the forest, and fly to the new land that she had discovered on one of her flights, she still felt fear. On her flight she think back to all her friends that she left behind, friends who always were there, to play with, friends that helps her with her wounds when she crash again to a tree when she try to land. All the friends that have learn her so much in the time that she lives there. They had give her so much trust, faith and believe back in her self, It was not easy for the Little Angel to leave this safe place, and go to an world that she didn't know. But like always the Little Angel was very curious how it will be, when she changed into a princess.

In one of the many flight that she had make outside the forest she met a prince, and he told her about his world. A world full of love, joy, and happiness. A world that the little angel only knows inside of her, and for so long she was searching for that world here on earth. Sometimes she had see a glimpse of it, but never it exist long. Every time that world disappear again, and the Little Angel stay behind in the Middle world, with only her dreams en hope that one day she really find her home world. That one day she will be really reunited with her brothers and sisters, and with the one she loves the most, her real Dragon.

When the Little Angel arrived in the new land, the prince told her that she can't not longer keep her wings when she wanted to become a real princess. For a moment she felt doubts, never before she was without her wings, and she saw also his wings, so why must put her wings off. He told her that she can't go into his world with her wings, because it scared to many people of. So the Little Angel take off her wings, but she hide for the prince the light sword that shadow had given her. When she turn back to her prince she saw how happy he was, and he said to her: "Now you are my little princess, and we can go into my world."

The world didn't look so much different from the other worlds that she had visit before. And even that everyone had cut there wings, didn't make that she didn't recognised the light deep inside of them. The first days she enjoyed the new place, but more and more her prince told her that her behave was still to much as a Angel. Every time he told her what she must do, how she must reacted as a princess, and the little angel feels very sad in it. She try so hard but never the prince was satisfied. The world around her becomes more and more dark

Every day the little princess walks outside in the woods, that reminds her so to her place in the forest.

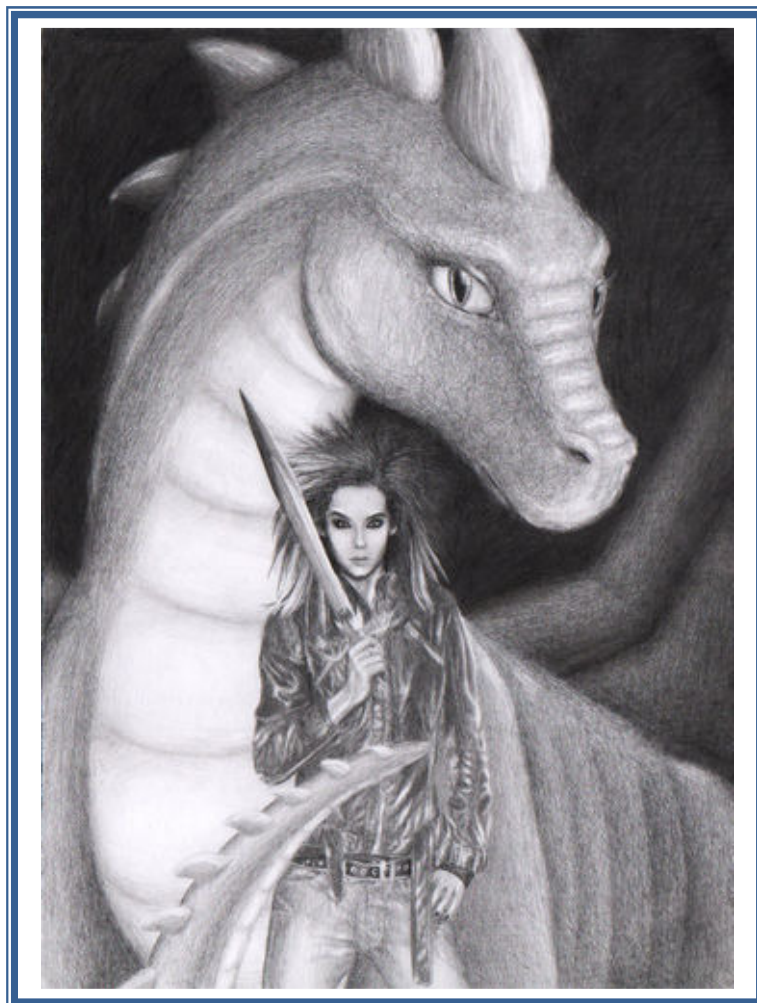

There she feel connected with her friends in the Forest, when a little breeze touch her skin, when she saw her own shadow it reminds her how safe she felt with him. She listen to the song of the moon who dry her tears, Even she felt her Dragon so close around her, and for ones she saw the shape of her dragon in the middle world. That makes her more sad and confused.

But all I gives her the strength to stay. More and more she becomes aware of the world of her Princes, and see how many people are just stuck in that world. It makes her sad but also very angry. One day when her princes told her again that she must hide her light, she refuse and takes her wings back, and with that also her light sword.

She told him that she don't want any longer play the role of a princes in that world, and that she don't allow it anymore that he keeps others in that world. The prince notice that he had lost this game and try to throw her out his world so he could stay safe in that world for him self. It didn't work now the Little Angel had her power back. In the days that follow the little Angel bring more and more her light in that world. Until the moment she felt deep inside the message to leave

The Little Angel return to the Forest in the middle world. But the adventure had makes also that the Little aAgel had many wounds. The first one she meet in the forest was her dragon and that makes her very happy. But then the sadness came back. She had wait so many years of him, and every time they must separated again. The only desire that the Little Angel had was to return to her home world.

She had lost all her faith and trust that she now really can be with her Dragon and that the dream that she carry so long inside will become true. Both started now to talk about the experience they had in the Middle World, and there is still a lot things that they have to share in that. But deep inside started again a little flame of hope, that this time the little angel can return to her home world together with her dragon.

~~ ISIS ~~

Mistress of Magic:

Isis (called "Aset" by the Egyptians), a daughter of Nut and Geb, is known in Ancient Egyptian mythology as a goddess of magic. Wife and sister of Osiris, Isis was originally considered a funerary goddess. After her resurrection via magic of Osiris, who had been killed by his brother Set, Isis was considered "more powerful than a thousand soldiers" and "the clever-tongued one whose speech never fails." She is sometimes invoked as an assistant in magical rituals in contemporary Wicca.

The Love of Isis and Osiris:

Isis and her brother, Osiris, were recognized as husband and wife. Isis loved Osiris, but their brother Set (or Seth) was jealous of Osiris, and planned to kill him. Set tricked Osiris and murdered him, and Isis was highly distraught. She found Osiris' body within a great tree, which was used by the Pharaoh in his palace. She brought Osiris back to life, and the two of them conceived Horus.

Depiction of Isis in Art and Literature:

Because Isis' name means, literally, "throne" in the Ancient Egyptian language, she is usually represented with a throne as a depiction of her power. She is often shown holding a lotus as well. After Isis was assimilated with Hathor, she was sometimes depicted with the twin horns of a cow on her head, with a solar disc between them.

Beyond Egypt's Borders:

Isis was at the center of a cult that spread far beyond Egypt's boundaries. The Romans were aware of the cult's existence, but it was frowned upon by many of the ruling class. The emperor Augustus (Octavian) decreed that worship of Isis was forbidden as part of his attempt to return Rome to Roman gods. For some Roman worshippers, Isis was absorbed into the cult of Cybele, which held bloody rites in honor of their mother goddess. The cult of Isis moved as far afield as ancient Greece, and was known as a mystery tradition among the Hellenes until it was banned by Christianity around the sixth century c.e.

Goddess of Fertility and Motherhood:

In addition to being the fertile wife of Osiris, Isis is honored for her role as the mother of Horus, one of Egypt's most powerful gods. She was also the divine mother of every pharaoh of Egypt, and ultimately of Egypt itself. She assimilated with Hathor, another goddess of fertility, and is often depicted nursing her son Horus. There is a wide belief that this image served as inspiration for the classic Christian portrait of the Madonna and Child.

Goddess of Magic:

After Ra created all things, Isis tricked him by creating a serpent which ambushed Ra on his daily journey across the heavens. The serpent bit Ra, who was powerless to undo the poison. Isis announced that she could heal Ra from the poison and destroy the serpent, but would only do so if Ra revealed his True Name as payment. By learning his True Name, Isis was able to gain power over Ra.

Goddess of Death and Rebirth:

After Set murdered and dismembered Osiris, Isis used her magic and power to bring her husband back to life. The realms of life and death are often associated with both Isis and her faithful sister Nephthys, who are depicted together on coffins and funerary texts. They are usually shown in their human form, with the addition of the wings that they used to shelter and protect Osiris.

Isis for a Modern Age:

Isis and Gardnerian Wicca

The Order of the Golden Dawn, founded by Aleister Crowley, recognized Isis as a powerful triple goddess and as such, she was passed down to modern Wicca when it was founded by Gerald Gardner.

KemetiC Wicca is a variation of Gardnerian Wicca that follows an Egyptian pantheon. Some KemetiC groups focus on the trinity of Isis, Orsiris and Horus and utilize prayers and spells found the ancient Egyptian [Book of the Dead].

Other Isiac Traditions

A number of contemporary Pagan traditions have adopted Isis as their patron Goddess and she is often found at the heart of Dianic Wiccan groups and other female-centered covens. Although modern Wiccan worship does not follow the same structure as the ancient Egyptian ceremonies that were once used to honor Isis, today's Isiac covens incorporate Egyptian lore and mythology into a Wiccan framework, bringing the knowledge and worhsip of Isis into a contemporary setting.

In addition to these widely recognized traditions, there are countless eclectic Wiccan groups throughout the world that have selected Isis as their deity. Because of the strength and power displayed by Isis, spiritual paths that honor her are popular among many Pagans and Wiccans who are seeking alternatives to traditional patriarchal religious structures. Worship of Isis has seen a resurgence as part of the "Goddess-oriented" spirituality that has become a notable part of the New Age movement.
